THE GIFT OF DODGE FAMILY

President Woodrow Wilson Delivers the Formal Address.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., October 19. Forty-seven years ago to-day the first college Y. M. C. A. was organized at the University of Virginia, John W. Johnson, engineer of Fort Sumter and historian of the defense of Charleston, was its first president, and the first recording secretary was L. M. Blackford, of the Episcopal High School, near Alexandria, Among the founders were the late Bishop Thomas U. Dudley, of Kentucky; Dr. J. William Jones, of Virginia; Dr. Thomas Hume, of the University of North Carolina; the late Dr. Thomas B. Price, of Columbia University, and a large number of others almost equally distinguished.

Although the first to be founded, the association was without a building until, Although the first to be founded, the association was without a building until, through the agency of Mr. John R. Mott, secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, laid the matter before the late William E. Dodge, of New York, who agreed to provide as much as $40,000 on condition that an endowment of $20,000 be subscribed. The condition was met satisfactorily to Mr. Dodge. The philanthropist died, however, before the gift was made, but his widow made good his benefaction, and did even more than he had promised. Her total gift amounts to something over $90,000, and to this generous sum her son, Cleveland H. Dodge, and her daughter, Miss Grace Dodge, and her daughter, Miss Grace Dodge, and her building and furnishing have cost $90,000. The building is known as Madison, an alumnus of Princeton, the almantance of Mr. Dodge. ison, an alumnus of Princeton, the alma mater of Mr. Dodge.
The hall was dedicated to-day, the build-son Hall, being named for President Madison, an alumnus of Princeton, the alma mater of Mr. Dodge.

The hall was dedicated to-day, the building being formally presented by, Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge and accepted by President Alderman.

In presenting the building Mr. Dodge said that his interest incidentally dated back nearly thirty years and directly twenty years. The first date was that of a visit to his room of Mr. Wishard, a senior at Princeton, in Mr. Dodge's sophomore year, in search for a scuttle of coal, when they drifted into a conversation about Christian work among college students. Mr. Wishard referred to the early foundation of an association at the University of Virginia. Ten years liter this same gentleman interested the senior Mr. Dodge in perfecting at the University of Virginia a building, from which the Y. M. C. A. induence could radiate to all parts of the South. He said that if his father had not died the building would have been an assured fact somewhat earlier, but that the family had always intended to carry out his implied wishes.

Dr. Alderman's address was followed by the dedicatory prayer by Dr. J. A. Quarles, of Washington and Lee University. The formal address was by Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, who in his student days at Virginia was an active member of the association.

President Woodrow Wilson, after pleasant allusions to his life at the University of Virginia and the happy memories evoked by his return to the old and familiar scenes, discussed in a masterly way the springs of life and their true sources, and incidentally considered what is true education and the 'purposes of it.

At the conclusion of his femarks, the nucleance expressed its delight, with President Wilson's pronounced the benediction.

The faculty ordained a full holiday in honor of the occasion and to emble professors, students and officers to assist at the dedication.

An extremely interesting session was the meeting at 3:20 this afternoon, which was given up to reminiscences. The program

Tidewater Road Must Pay,
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ROANOKE, VA., October 19.—The commissioners appointed by the court to condemn land for the right of way for the Tidewater road through the cily made their report. Under their report the right of way will cost between $45,000 and $50,000. A committee of cilizens guaranteed that the right of way should not cost the county more than $40,000, so they will have to pay from $5,000 to $10,000.

WEST POINT WEDDING

Mr. John Knapp.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WEST POINT, October 19.-The town had just settled after the excitement caused by the Bland-Farinholt wedding caused by the Bland-Farinholt wedding when it was thrown into another paroxism by the marriage of another business man of West Point, Mr. John Knapp, to Miss Minnie Roberts, also of West Point. This marriage was as quiet as possible. Mr. Knapp, calling for Miss Roberts in a carriage, they sought the home of the Methodist minister. Rev. J. F. Cuthriell, and were married. The first thing that the families of the contracting parties knew of the marriage was a call from the bride and groom about 9 o'clock at night.

Mr. Knapp is well known as an industrious, successful business man, connected with the large oyster and crabindustry of his uncle, Capiain W. J. Marshall.

The bride is equally well-known. She Marshall.

The bride is equally well-known. She is the daughter of Mr. Roberts, chief of police force, and Mrs. Roberts, of the Roberts House. The happy couple went home last night, and this morning Mr. Knapp went, as usual, to his place of business.

Knapp went, as usual, to his place of business.

Quite a crowd of West Pointers went to Richmond to see the President yesterday, among them Dr. William K. Gatewood, Mr. O'Connor, Mrs. A. F. Hargrave, Mrs. Albert Robinson, Mrs. I. B. Dudley and son, Douglas; Mr. Hansford Anderson, Jr., Miss Lessie Philips, Mrs. J. Rt. Palmer and others.

Quite a number of visitors are in West Point, having come to attend the Bland-Farinholt wedding. There are a great many people traveling via the Southern Railroad and York River route, and the town people find it quite a diversion to meet the afternoon trains and watch the steamers go out laden with the living freight. At this season there are many bridal parties.

PRESIDENT OF BOARD.

position on Account of Politics.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK. VA., October 19.—There will be a meeting to-morrow in Williamsburg of the Board of Directors of Williamsburg of the Board of Directors of Williams and Mary College. A chairman of the board is to be elected, and a contest is on for the position. In June last an attempt was made by the board to elect a president, vice Dr. John W. Lawson, deceased, but it resulted in a tie vote between Robert M. Hughes, of Norfolk, and Armistead C. Gordon, of Staunton. Falling of an election, the duties of the position rested upon the vice-president, James N. Stubbs, of Gloucester county. Four members of the board reside in Norfolk—Colonel William Lamb, Robert M. Hughes, Rev. Dr. Beverley D. Tucker and Walter A. Edwards—and one member, Judge J. F. Crocker, resides in Portsmouth. Dr. Thomas H. Barnes, of Nansemond, who is also a member of the board, was in Norfolk to-day on the way to Williamsburg. Speaking of, the election of a president of the board, the Doctor said that objection to Mr. Hughes is made on the ground that he is a Republican in politics, but he (Barnes) dosn't rejgard that as a valid argument against the election of Mr. Hughes, whom he considers well-qualified for the position.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Winchester Presbytery Holds Its Fall Meeting.

WINCHESTER, VA., October 10.—The fall meeting of the presbytery of Winchester, embracing a large number of Presbyterian churches in the valley of Virginia and West Virginia, convened this evening in the historic stone chapel, near Wadesville, Clarke county, with a full attendance of ministers, elders and many members of churches composing the presbytery.

many members of churches composing the presbytery.

The opening sermon was delivered by the mederator, Rev. Charles D. Gilkeson, of Moorfield, W. Va., after which presbytery was constituted by prayer, it will be in session until Monday night, and one of the most important features will be the reading of a paper on the "Life of John Knox, the Reformer," by Rev. Dr. Percy M. White, pastor of Opequon Memorial Church, of Kornstown, Va.

was to have been the banner day of the thirty-sixth annual Winchester Fair was marked to-day by frequent drizzling rains and the attendance was not over six thousand. The fair closes Friday afternoon.

six thousand. The fair closes Friday afternoon.

Despite the sprinkling rain the track events were most exciting and constituted some of the best racing that has ever been seen on the local track. The running race, three-quarter-mile heats; best two out of three; purse, $200; was won by Nannie Ordway, Duff Green, Fredericksburg, Va.; Dirie Paradise, E. W. Wells & Brother, Bull Run, Va., was second, and Sky Runner, A. Hickman, Martinsburg, W. Va., third. Time, 118, 118.

The steeplechase was of particular interest and was won by Chevil Dorre, E. W. Wells & Brother; purse, $46. Butter-milk and Thad were disqualified.

The free-for-all trot and pace, purse, $200, was exciting. Five horses were entered and four heats run without picking a winner. The fifth heat was a dead one, Noble Boy and Nigger Boy, finishing side by side, By mutual agreement the other horsemen allowed these two to run for first and second money, Noble Boy winning. The fourth heats resulted as follows:

UNCONSCIOUS WHEN SAVED IN OLD BLANDFORD CHURCH

Roosevelt Waved His Hand to Petersburg As He Passed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) PETERSBURG, VA., October 19.-Bo neath the shadow of historic old Blandford Church, on the waving green sward of the church-yard, there was unveiled this afternoon a granite cenotaph, bear ing on its highly polished scroll-shaped front the following inscription:

front the following inscription:

In Memory of
JOHN DALY BURK,
An Irish refugee and author of a History of Virginia; was killed in a duel on Fleet's Hill, on the north side of the Appomattox River, April 11, 1808, and was buried at Cadar Grove, near the Western limits of Petersburg, Va.

Erected by the Frances Bland Randolph Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, 1908.
The unveiling ceromonies were opened with a reverently appropriate and beautiful prayer by Rev. Dr. J. S. Foster, chaplain of the Frances Bland Randolph Chapter, the rays of the setting sun streaming over the little assemblage of men and women standing with bowed heads around the momorial stone so near the old church walls making a beautifully impressive scone.
A most succinctly and comprehensively interesting sketch of Burk's Mfe was read by the Rev. Corbin Braxton Bryan, who then, turning to Mayor Jones, in graceful terms presented the memorial to the city. After a few fitting words of acceptance by the Mayor, the enveloping flag around the centoaph was withdrawn by Miss Nan Spotswood Jones, daughter of Mayor Jones.

President Roosevelt passed through here last night, waving his hand from the rear platform of his car to the several hundred people assembled at the Scaboard Air Line Station to see him.
He spoke for several minutes to a large crowd at McKenney, in Dinwiddie county, expressing his pleasure in recelving so cordial a welcome—to Virginia.
